

French Beginner syllabus

Prerequisite: None. Appropriate course for beginners.

French Beginner is a class for students with no experience in the language. Basic conversation, reading, listening and writing skills are taught at the Beginner level. Students learn regular verbs ending in "er" and some irregular verbs: to be, to have, to do, to go, etc. Present, future and past tenses, basic negations, questions, adjective usage are also part of the Beginner core. Main conversation topics include: introducing oneself, identifying, describing, and characterizing people, objects, places, and events; giving information and instructions; issuing simple commands and requests, family, telling time, and different actions in the present, future and past tenses.

French Elementary syllabus

Prerequisite: French Beginner or Placement test.

More of the basic conversation, reading, listening and writing skills are taught at the Elementary level. Students learn more regular and irregular verbs. Future and more past tenses are introduced as well as grammar items such as question formation and pronoun usage. Main conversation topics include: talking about food, medias, housing, politics and cultural aspects of the French speaking world. Speaking and writing in French about past and future events; telling a story (narrating and describing the past), promising, predicting, and proposing simple conjectures.

French Pre-Intermediate syllabus

Prerequisite: French Elementary or Placement test.

Increasing active vocabulary, reinforcing mastery of basic grammar, dealing with more complex structures (verbal phrases, subordinate clauses), and using some patterns of indirect speech (e.g., repeating or relaying messages, giving reports, summarizing). French Pre-Intermediate is foremost a review of some of the basic grammar items with an emphasis on exceptions to rules and new vocabulary items to improve conversation skills. Conversation, reading and writing skills are taught in order for students to improve their knowledge and usage of the language. French Pre-Intermediate reviews and improves usage of regular verbs and of the irregular verbs. Adjectives, articles, basic question patterns, and numbers form also the core of the review and improvement taught in the class. Main conversation topics include: talking about health, arts, medias, politics and cultural aspects of the French speaking world.
